

THE BOOK AND THE PINK

I'm going to explain a story.

It was one day of November, 1569. This town was very cold. There was one girl who hadn't much money. When she was nine years old, she worked very hard, ten hours a day. When her father and her mother died, she'd a brother. When she was twelve years old and her brother was 10 years old, it was no longer a small town. It was very difficult to have a good life in this city so the siblings went to another town. They began a long adventure...They had been walking for two weeks in order to arrive in the new town. Both siblings wondered what that town was.

Both of them started a new job. One day a boy who was walking towards home, saw the girl, but she didn't see him. After three long years, the siblings weren't children anymore. They became both lord and lady. She married a handsome knight, they had three boys and two girls. On the other hand, her brother had four children. There was only a girl. When she turned into a lady, she was kidnapped by a dragon when she was picking up some flowers in a very big garden. A knight wanted to rescue her but failed. He was called Son of a Dragon. While the lady was flying on a dragon she saw Arthur the big. He was a handsome German knight. Unfortunately, he was caught by two soldiers. The soldiers went far away from the forest and brought him to the king. At that time, he had tears all over his face. So did the queen. The king entrusted them with a mission. They had to find the dragon in its cave so that they could kill it and rescue the lady.

Three days later, the soldiers tried to kill it again, but the lady didn't want to. Finally, the soldiers killed the dragon. Six years later, the king didn't know anything about them. When they finally went to the castle the lady was very angry and so she expelled them from the castle.

If it hadn't been important for me, I wouldn't have written this story.

The End
